In ancient fairy tales there is always a story about a Talisman. A Talisman was a ring-a jeweled ring made of strangely fabricated gold. Its possessor were it through all dangers and always arrived safely at his or her journey's end. Do you know why there was so much written about a Talisman in ancient times? It was because, since the beginning of time, gold and precious slones have represented, in the minds of men, something to be desired by all mankind. Today we do not believe in a Talisman but we do believe in that which is beautiful. No ancient ring was ever fashioned so beautiful as modern jewelry, no stone cut with such wonderful skill as stones of today. The great Talisman of today is the Regard we bear those about us-the presentation of a ring an omen of fortune and an expression of something high and fine in rings, many jewels, many things of beauty which would have put to shame the goldsmith of the Middle Age. When you pass this way look in, for there is much to see and much to know at this

A BIG CHRISTMAS IDEA

Probably your wife has already said:

"I much prefer a Good Rug"

As a matter of fact, most housekeepers would prefer a good rug. So that the man who burs a rug for his wife or his mother for a Christmas gift is killing two birds with one stone—he is not only buying something that she wants, that she will appreciate, because after all it helps make the home more attractive and inviting, but he probably forestalls the putchase of a rug he might be forced to buy later.
